A coming-of-age quest, devised by the Little Soldier Company & scripted by Matt Harvey, featuring epic songs, cinematic storytelling and hip hop dance.

Three kids are in trouble. Well, what do you expect if you knock on the door of an inter-dimensional portal and run away?

By means of bicycles, bandanas and neural space travel, we travel with them on an adventure to the impossible. We'll take on intergalactic challenges, we'll fight invisible forces and we may have to make some sacrifices. But what we'll discover will be extraordinary and will open the door to new jaw-dropping possibilities.

Inspired by the novels of Jules Verne, Journey to the Impossible is a homage to 80s sci-fi films and timeless adventure stories for all the family.

Originally commissioned by the Bike Shed Theatre, Exeter and supported using public funding by the National Lottery through Arts Council England.

Devised by the company

Directed by Mercè Ribot and Patricia Rodríguez

"If you plant a seed, and treat it like the dirt it's surrounded by, it'll grow ugly, like me..."

Carrying the weight of the world in his J.D sports bag, a working class lad trades his bag-head mates for a one-way ticket out of Salford...

Combining quick-witted spoken word with original songs, Gill's explosive drama takes us on a poetic journey against the backdrop of Ladbrokes, broke lads and shit dads. Following its sell-out run at the Edinburgh Festival 2016, critically acclaimed Growing Pains returns to tour the UK.

Commissioned by Battersea Arts Centre. Supported by Arts Council England.
